BOTETOURT COUNTY. BAD MAIL-ARRANGEMENTS-CROPS, &C. (Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.)

I notice a paragraph in your correspondent's letter from Bristol, published in your paper of the 7th, asking the following quesion: " Why is it that the Richmond papers are usually about twenty-four hours behind time in reaching Bristol?" This I can solve, and know that the Department has been written to on the subject, but as yet no notice has been taken of it. About two months ago the Atlantic, Mississippi and Ohio railroad resumed their double daily trips, and the mail-matter is distributed along this line by the day-train. Thus your paper of Tuesday, we will say, leaves Richmond by the Chesapeake and Ohio or Richmond and Danville railroad about 9 or 10 o'clock A. M., reaches Lynchburg at 5 P. M, the same evening, and instead of being sent directly on by the 5:15 P. M. train west is delayed in Lynchburg from 5 M. Tuesday until 11 A. M. Wednesday-eighteen hours. Were the papers ent on by the usual course, as they should persons as far west on this line as Salem would receive them the same evening of their issae, and at points beyond (we will av as far as Bristol) the papers would be received during the night, and subscriher, could have them as early on Wednesday norning as they chose to call for them; but it is now conducted the delay of eighteen hours at Lynchburg throws it off until 2 P. M. on Wednesday before they are received as far as Salem, and later in the evening as you go beyond, reaching Bristol Wednesday night, and are not delivered until Thursday morning, thus making it twentyour hours behind at that point, and nearly forty-eight hours from Richmond to Bris-There are route agents on both trains, and I cannot see why we should not have our mail matter delivered twice a day, as it would be no additional expense to the Government and a great convenience to the people living in Southwest Virginia. You e surprised to hear it, but we receive the Baltimore and Washington papers here twenty-four hours ahead of those from either Richmond, Norfolk, or Petersburg, and papers from Philadelphia and New York re received at the same hour with those from our Virginia cities. We of the Southwest desire to be more identified with and to aid in building up the cities of our own state, and would prefer a more direct communication with them than the cities further north. I am glad to see that Richmond is fast regaining the trade of this section, which for several years was diverted to Bal-

The Debate on the Eastern Question in NEWS FROM THE OLD WORLD the House of Commons.

LONDON, May 10 .- In the House of Commons this afternoon Hon. Robert Rourke, under-secretary for the Foreign Department, in reply to a question, said no steps have been taken to send a naval force to the Danube. Such a step would lead to much misinterpretation, and possibly serious results. He said he had no information about the state of the Black-Sea blockade, and no representations had been made about its insufficiency. In reply to a question by Mr. Wait, he said England had asked the Porte for a further extension of time for the entry to and clearance of vessels from blockaded ports. The Eastern debate was then renewed.

Mr. Forster said he was happy to think that it would not be so easy to drift into war at the close of the present debate as it might have been previously. It could not embarrass the Government to pass the present resolutions, as the Government had already made declarations of similar pur-

Mr. Forster's speech was a criticism of Earl Derby's reply to Prince Gortschakoff. He said some of the arguments therein, though conclusive, were based upon false assumptions. The whole tendency of the reply was dangerous. It was a very strong statement to say that Russia had broken the treaty of Paris by the step she had taken. If the Government thought that to declare war instead of leaving the Russia was blamable depended very much matters were to be arranged was real. He denied that that concert was anything more than a sham, denied that England had the Egypt, and scouted the idea that Russia dethem, but before the outbreak of the present war would have supported a declaration in | State. favor of European pressure and coërcion. He believed the majority of the House favored neutrality as far as is consistent with British interests, and said that the best way to protect those interests was to be ready to offer mediation at the first opportunity.

Mr. Chaplin declared that Russia to a great extent was responsible for the events which occurred last year in Bulgaria, and said that care should be taken to prevent Russia from setting her foot in Constantinople or interfering with the road to India, even if it was necessary to sweep the Mediterranean to secure the object.

Sir Robert Peel, citing the case of Poland, ridiculed the conjunction of the name of gold coin, to be paid for during May and Russia with civil or religious liberty. He June. ranging from $2.50 to $34.50. By Telegraph. NEW YORK.

LONDON, May 11.—The debate on the Eastern question was resumed.

Mr. Rourke said 'Mr. Gladstone's attack on the Government was unjustifiable. The Government, he said, wishes to maintain a strict neutrality, but cannot countenance views of extremists about dismemberment of Turkey or a policy of coercion. There was not the slightest reason to suppose Austria and Germany would join in such an undertaking. Mr. Rourke denied that England had destroyed European concert.
